EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Boat Upset and Two Persons Drowned.

ROCHESTER, July 23.—Bernard, a sailor, and his young son were drowned yesterday in Irondequoit bay, by the upsetting of a boat.

Peculation and the End Thereof.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—Charles Denham, a book-keeper in the employ of Wm. Glenney & Co., was brought before a magistrate yesterday, charged with embezzling some $2,000, which was made by a series of small peculations, extending over a year or eighteen months.

A Car Breaks Loose and Kills Two Persons.

A car on the incline at the coal mines at Ashland, Ky., yesterday, broke loose and ran off the track into a house occupied by a family named Claxton, killing a woman and a boy of ten.

A Political Affray among the Indians.

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—The Globe-Democrat has an account of a desperate affray between the political factions of the Cherokee Indian nation, 12 miles from Fort Smith, Arkansas, on the 16th inst., in which three men were killed. Seven men emptied double-barreled shotguns into Coady. At last accounts the rival factions, numbering about thirty on each side, had gathered at the scene of the difficulty, and some firing had taken place, but with what result is not known.

The Adams' Express Murderers Committed.

The examination of Edmunds and Cochran, charged with being concerned in the attempted robbery of Adams' express, and killing the engineer, Ames, at Long Point on the Vandalia road, two weeks ago, took place at Greenupill yesterday, and after considerable testimony taken and argument made by counsel, Justice McConnah committed both prisoners without bail.

Bank Robbery.

LEWISTON, Me., July 23.—The National bank of Winthrop was robbed this morning, and the vaults and safe of the savings bank opened. Loss not yet known.

WINTHROP, Me., July 23.—The robbery of the Winthrop National Bank occurred this morning. The safes were blown open by nitro glycerine. It is thought the amount secured by the robbers is not very large. Capital of the bank $200,000, and amount of deposits in Savings Bank about $100,000. The safes of both institutions were rifled of their entire contents. The standing of the bank, the directory say, will not be impaired. Four men have been arrested on suspicion of being the robbers.

A Man Falls from a Fourth Story Window.

BALTIMORE, July 23.—A man aged 35, registered as W. H. Van Biven, Cincinnati, fell from the fourth story window of the Fountain House this morning and was instantly killed.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Wool quiet and firm. Supply of good medium and combing on best demand. Texas fine and medium, 28@32c; do., coarse, 22@24c; California fair and medium, 28@35c. coarse, 18@30c.

Counterfeiters Detected.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Secretary Fish has informed Mayor Wickham that a gang of counterfeiters, with headquarters at Barcelona, are preparing to issue in this city $13,000,000 of counterfeit notes of the bank of England and bank of France.

Shipwreck.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The ship Lahore, from New Orleans, reports that on July 16th, 6 miles south of Frying Pan Shoals light ship, she saw the three mastheads of a large steamer sunk.

A Revolting Crime Committed by four Villains.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A Times Carrolton, Ill., special says, night before last four young men; Thomas Maroney, Peter Hogan, Michael Kilcuny and Joe Robinson, near the cemetery, after nightfall, overhauled Miss Eva Snyder, a young woman 15 years old, in company with Hugh Brown. They drew a knife and drove Brown up the street, and taking the girl in their arms carried her into a cornfield and ravished her, each satisfying his brutal greed and then let her go to get home the best way she could. She got into town and took out writs for the offenders who have absconded. The officers are in pursuit of the offenders and they will doubtless be captured.

Express Robbers Held for Trial.

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—The examination of Edmunds and Cochran, charged with being concerned in the attempted robbery of Adams' express car and killing engineer Ames, at Long Point, on the Vandalia road, two weeks ago, took place at Greenup, Illinois, yesterday. Justice McCouch committed both prisoners without bail.

[illegible] Walking—1100 Miles in 1000 Hours.

BOSTON, July 23.—Hugh Donohue completed at Mystic Park, last night, the task of walking 1,100 miles in 1,000 consecutive hours. He was in good condition at the close.

The Place of the Abbotsford Supplied.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—The steamship City of Limerick has been secured to take the place of the Abbotsford, lost on the coast of Wales, and will sail from Liverpool next Wednesday. By this arrangement the sailing of the American line will proceed without interruption. The Abbotsford was fully insured in Great Britain and France, and her freight to this country and Europe. Her cargo was large.

The Impeached Treasurer Resigns.

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—State Auditor Clinton has sent his resignation to Gov. Kellogg, to take effect December 15, 1875. He says: "I fix upon that date for the reason that an earlier resignation would compel you, under article 70 of the constitution, to order a new election to fill the vacancy, and this would involve a large expense to the State, which I know you desire to avoid." He states he had long desired to resign, but waited until his character had been vindicated, which had been done by the report of the experts and evidence adduced at the recent trials, though unfortunately, he was not permitted to testify, and consequently many facts in his favor known only to himself remain undeveloped. He assigns as one reason for retiring his inability to get along harmoniously with the state treasurer. Gov. Kellogg, in accepting the resignation says: "Though in the discharge of my official duty, I ordered an investigation to be made into your accounts, and directed the officers of state to prosecute the charges preferred against you, I have not for a moment believed you personally guilty of dishonesty in the administration of your office. Before the experts made their report I had examined into many [illegible] charged against you, and found them groundless. He says subsequent conversation with experts, one of whom was president of the cotton exchange, and the testimony adduced here to-day, only confirmed him in that opinion.

A Man who Fled Some Years Ago Under an Alias is Going to Make it Right.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Lynchburg, Va., News says an attorney arrived there last week from California with power from Ambrose R. Woodruff, alias Miller, to draw his balance from the banking house of Woodruff & Spence. He had previously sent money to the firm to pay certain debts contracted prior to his hurried flight from Lynchburg in 1869.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Corruptionists Balked.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A Washington special says the congressional committee has collected thousands of dollars in the shape of political assessments. Clerks propose to resist assessments of the committee upon the ground that it has no legal existence. It was appointed by the 43d congress for a specific object. That object is fulfilled, and the 43d congress no longer exists. Until the meeting of the 44th congress, and another appointment by it, there will be no such thing as a legal committee, and the men who are at present robbing clerks in the name of the Republican party, are no more authorized to do what they do than ordinary highwaymen. The assessors have yet avoided pressing those who object to their demands. The exposures in relation to the handling of the committee make them fearful that a good, honest prosecution against them, by men who had nothing to lose officially, would land them in the penitentiary.

Gunboats for Protection of Rio Grande Border.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The government has purchased the New Orleans steamer Planter, drawing but four feet of water. She will be properly armed and manned and sent to the Rio Grande to prevent Mexicans from crossing into Texas and running off cattle. It is said one or two other steamers of a similar character will be purchased and fitted out to act with the Planter in suppressing Mexican depredations. The Planter has been ordered to Mobile, and Lieut. Commander D. C. Kelly has been detached from the iron-clad Canonicus and sent to that city to take command.

An Insane Indian Prisoner.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Information is received from Ft. Marion, Fla., that Lion Bear, one of the Cheyenne prisoners at that fort, has become insane, and application has been made to have him sent to the government insane asylum near this city. This is the same Indian who attempted suicide on the road to Florida. Under a recent order to send the families of these prisoners to them, directions had been given that one wife to each of the prisoners, and children under 12 years of age, be forwarded.

The Chorpenning Case.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The decision of the attorney general in the Chorpenning case was to-day forwarded by Attorney-General Pierrepont to the President.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Wheat Prospects Still Good.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Herald's London special says the late incessant rains caused considerable damage to crops throughout the kingdom. The entire advance in wheat has been 8s per quarter since the recent excitement respecting crop movements from America and elsewhere set in. In respect to any further advance much will depend upon the steadiness and sound judgment of operators. It is regarded, however, as improbable that even favorable weather will operate to produce any considerable decline. Advices from Hungary report considerable damage to fields, without advance of price. In South Russia there has been greater damage from drouth than wet, which will, however, limit the Odessa shipments. In France, besides floods, the harvest is later than last year, and not so good.

The Collies out of Custody.

LONDON, July 23.—Alexn. and Wm. Collie, committed in default of $40,000 bail, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, have secured the necessary bonds and been released.

The End of a Strike.

VIENNA, July 23.—The strike of weavers at Brunn has ended in a compromise with the employers.

The Abbotsford a Complete Wreck.

LONDON, July 23.—The steamship Abbotsford, which went ashore in Cummacie Bay, bilged over this afternoon, and the stern sunk in seven fathoms of water. The vessel is a complete wreck.

THE LAST CARGO OF SLAVES.

CURIOUS STORIES BY CAPTURED AFRICANS—HOW THEY WERE BROUGHT TO NEW ORLEANS LESS THAN THIRTY YEARS AGO.

A paper printed at Thibodaux, Lafourche Parish, La., tells the following: "There remain yet some natives of Africa in our parish, one of whom is Joe Williams, about forty-five years of age, now on the Matthews and Selby Plantation, who was taken from his native land about twenty-eight years ago. He was stolen from Lower Guinea by one of the natives of his country, who employed him with about forty boys of his age to pack cocoa-nuts and other fruits, such as bananas, &c., to the ship. After having worked all day they were told to remain on board the vessel until morning. In the morning, however, they found themselves upon the high sea, and they were then nailed up in boxes, and holes were made in the bottoms through which they were fed. When they arrived at the Passes the captain instructed them to keep very quiet; that a man was coming on board (supposed to have been the inspector or collector of customs) who would kill them, but he did not discover them. They were then sold some distance below New Orleans. Joe says he then passed from hand to hand until bought by his last owner, John Lyall, of this parish, then residing in the city, with whom he remained until emancipation."

Commenting upon this story the New Orleans Times remarks: "This man must have been one of the negroes brought here in 1847, by a Spaniard who traded largely in negroes at that time. Several hundreds were imported that year. Many of them were landed at Cote Blanche Island in Atchafalaya Bay. A large lot were sold to the late Meredith Calhoun, who planted the great estate of that name on Red river. William Weekes, Esq., of Weekes Island, in the parish of St. Mary, bought some, as also did the late John M. Pelton, who about this time was opening the well-known Lake Plantation in Terrebonne. Don Juan Egana, then the owner of the Fanny Plantation, about thirty miles below this city, bought that year forty-two Africans, and he must have been the first owner of Joe Williams. The last cargo of negroes ever imported into this State—and indeed the last ever imported South—were brought here in the Wanderer in 1858, by Charles Lamar. They were readily sold many prominent citizens of this State, and Alabama being the purchasers. Through the efforts of Hon. Thomas J. Semmes, at that time United States district attorney, nearly all of the purchasers of this State were indicted at the next term of the United States district court, Judge McCaleb on the bench. Among them was Hon. Henry W. Allen, afterward governor of this State and general in the Confederate army. There was much feeling in this State in consequence of his attempt to reopen the slave trade, public sentiment being very strongly against it. Negroes born in Africa are by no means uncommon in Louisiana. There are quite a number on the plantations above the city, between here and Donaldsonville, and some also in the parishes of Assumption, Lafourche, and Terrebonne. The voudou queen who reigned before Marie Lavaux was an African, and a princess in her own country. Many of our citizens will remember that she conducted the more occult ceremonies of the voudou rites—particularly the invocation to the Spirit of Evil—in the dialect of her African tribe. She said fifteen years ago that she was 100 years old, and she had every appearance of having reached that great age."

WOMEN ACCORDING TO THE HINDOO CREED.—According to the Hindoo law-giver, a woman has no god on earth but her husband, and no religion except to gratify, obey, and serve him. Let her husband be crooked, old, infirm, offensive; let him be irascible, irregular, a drunkard, a gambler, a debauchee; let him be reckless of his domestic affairs, as if possessed by a devil; though he live in the world without honor; though he be deaf or blind, and wholly weighed down by crime and infirmity—still shall his wife regard him as her God. With all her might shall she serve him. In all things obey him, see no defects in his character and give him no cause of uneasiness. Nay, more; in every stage of her existence woman lives but to obey, at first her parents, and in her old age she must be ruled by her children. Never during her whole life can she be under her own control. These are the general principles upon which the life of women in India is to be conducted. The Hindoo writer was considerate enough to add a few particulars. "If her husband laughs, she ought to laugh; if he weeps, she ought to weep; if he is disposed to speak, she ought to join in the conversation. Thus is the goodness of her nature displayed. What woman would eat till her husband has first had his fill? If he abstains, she will surely fast also; if he is sad, will she not be sorrowful? And if he is gay, will she not leap for joy? In the absence of her husband her raiment will be mean."—Harper's Magazine.

From the Bureau of Statistics we learn that in the three months ending June 30, of this year, the number of immigrants arrived in New York was 45,556, of whom 25,625 were males, and 19,931 were females. In the corresponding period of 1874, the number was 68,955, showing a decrease of 23,399 from last year. Of the arrivals in June last, 3,264 came from Germany, 3,192 from Ireland, 2,240 from England, and the remainder from other countries. Immigration is not falling off, as compared with the average arrivals for some years back, although, so far, this year is behind last.

Mountain Meadows Massacre.

Statement for the Prosecution.

BEAVER, July 23.—The Lee trial was resumed to-day. The interest of the people is at fever heat. Lee's wives and a number of Gentile women were in court. U. S. Attorney Carrie eloquently made a statement of the expected proof. He drew a vivid picture of the rich emigrant train bound for California, entering Utah, refused supplies; attacked by Indians and entrenched; the siege of days, the coming of Lee with troops; the flag of truce; the treachery and butchery of men, women and children; the property taken; the tithing house sale of goods; the bodies lying unburied for weeks following, and the killing of those who escaped; the report of the deed to Brigham Young; his orders to sell the property and never to mention the deed, accounting for the want of knowledge of the transaction on the part of the Mormon jury list. All these things he would prove.

The witnesses were sworn and put under rule. Recess.

The Defense Discomposed.

2 P. M.—Defense are greatly discomposed by the publication of the outline of Lee's confession, obtained by your reporter, as it gives a clear idea that Lee confessed his guilt, destroying the intended theory that the massacre was chargable to the Indians.

It is not announced what new theory the defense will set up.

The Expectation of the Prosecution.

No one expects a verdict from the jury as composed. The prosecution say their desire is to get the facts before the people and a popular verdict against the power of the Mormon Church, and they think the trial will break the backbone of this priestly confederacy.

The Defense.

The defense say they expect no verdict, but neither can there be a conviction. It is now openly charged that the Mormon authorities are aiding Lee's defense, notwithstanding his excommunication.

State of Public Feeling.

The feeling of indignation is great over the jurors' swearing to no knowledge of the massacre, though old residents of that region. Comments are loud and severe, especially over the attempt of one of the defendant's sons-in-law to sit on the jury. On the other hand, the Mormons declare they are taking no part in the defense; that the jurors live in remote regions, seldom discussing public matters, and are honest in saying they have no opinion or knowledge of the massacre. They declare Judge Craddlebaugh, who held court at Cedar City in May, 1858, had all the facts of the case before him, with Johnston and the army to aid, but took no steps; that Lee lived there sixteen years, but no attempt was made to prosecute him; that the Church takes no part in the trial and had no part in the massacre, and they defy proof.

A FIERY STEED.—"Yes," said the driver of the car to the man who stood on the steps, "she's a mighty nice mare for car work—leastways to look at. Kick! Well, you bet. Since I've had her, she's removed the insides from two horses hitched in with her, she's caved in her stall times enough to make one carpenter rich, and livened up more'n one passenger; 'member one case in particular: Nice old gent with youngsters, goin' out for a Sunday picnic; he'd a basket of lunch covered up with a table-cloth. Jest as he was getting off, the mare worked 'round when I wasn't lookin', and she fetched the basket one clatter with both feet—I don't rightly know but she got in all four—any ways there was lunch for everybody within ten rods, whether he wanted it or not; the paper boys mostly did. Think the old man saved the handle of the ham and the cork of the bottle. Such a nice looking beast as she is, too. Why that mare has been bought out of the stables not less'n three times 'cause she was such a gentle lookin' lady's horse. Well, it's good for the doctors and wagon-makers, anyhow. Always staves up the family, and gets back into the team less'n a week. Never was broke, she wasn't; and never will be till she falls off a house."

BURIED HIS BONDS.—The inconvenience occasioned by a miserly misanthropical man who died in Mobile, Ala., is thus set forth by the Register of that city: "Some time ago, John R. Tompkins, Esq., as attorney for the heirs of the late William J. Cole, deceased, offered a large reward for the recovery of seventeen of the sterling bonds of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad company, upon which the deceased had been collecting the interest for a number of years prior to his death. Since his death no trace of these bonds could be had until within the last ten days, when the attorney felt justified in increasing the reward as an inducement to others to search for what was obviously somewhere hidden under ground. At the time indicated officers Bressingham, Eastburn, (the Chief of Police,) and others, undertook what to some appeared the absurd idea of digging up the ground to a depth of two feet all over the premises of the late deceased. They had scarcely worked four hours when the lucky spade struck the prize, a common starch box, in a great state of decay. The bonds have been delivered to the attorney. These bonds were evidently buried by Cole in person before his death, and, as he had neither family or intimate personal friends in Mobile, the secret of the whereabouts of his property has slept with him in the grave for a year and a half."

ANIMAL SAGACITY.—A Mississipian has a cat of which he tells the following story: "I was sick a short time ago, and the cat would come from the table to the bed frequently. She finally caught a mouse and brought it to the bed, laying it down beside me. I threw it off, but as often as I did so the cat would bring it back, until I thought she wanted me to eat it; so I made believe I ate it, and the cat went away apparently satisfied. And before night the same day she brought me a striped squirrel, and each day for the three days I was in bed she brought game, with the same result; she would never leave until I had pretended to eat it."

A gentleman of Boston has a Spitz dog which is never allowed in his sleeping room. A few weeks since his wife was taken ill, and the second day of her sickness the dog made his way into the chamber, jumped on to the bed, gave her an affectionate kiss on her cheek, and then retired to the part of the house allotted to him.

BALL-ROOM CONVERSATION.—Nothing, perhaps, more deserves our sympathetic commiseration than the position of a timid young man who does not know what to say to his partner at a ball; indeed, we have "hidden depths" of indulgence for the unfortunate fellow who, with heightened color, ventures to remark, "It is very warm!" or "What beautiful dresses!" But of all the observations which could suggest themselves to a youthful dancer overcome with bashfulness, the following, recently heard in a crowded ball-room, is certainly the most original: "I say!" stammered the youth, "I say!" "Yes." "Did it hurt you much having your ears pierced?"

BURSTING OF A BALLOON.—Miss Ibling, niece of Professor Wise, the aeronaut, made a balloon ascension at Philadelphia, July 5th. When her balloon had reached an altitude of about 5,000 feet it suddenly burst, and was torn from the top to the valve. The gas came out in such quantities as to overpower Miss Ibling, and she fell to the bottom of the basket insensible and the balloon fell to the ground. When the balloon was first seen to burst, it spun around with fearful velocity, and the gas-bag fell over the side. The parachute arrangement attached to the balloon saved the lady from being dashed to pieces.

A NIGHT BALLOON VOYAGE.

PERILOUS ADVENTURES OF THREE CANADIAN EDITORS—FLYING THROUGH THE AIR AND LANDING IN THE WATER—A FEARFUL NIGHT IN LAKE ONTARIO—PROFESSOR DONALDSON'S TRIP FROM TORONTO.

[From the New York Sun.]

Mr. Charles Pirie of the Toronto Sun, who, with Mr. Charles of the Leader, and Mr. Devine of the Advertiser, went up with Prof. Donaldson in the balloon "P. T. Barnum," from Toronto on Thursday last, gives an interesting account of the voyage and of their miraculous escape from the waters of Lake Ontario. They reached an altitude of 2,000 feet, and when twilight set in they were over the center of the lake. The professor then announced that they would be compelled to remain out all night, as it would be impossible to make a landing unless the wind changed. The wind shortly increased and drove the balloon along at the rate of forty miles an hour. More ballast being thrown out the air-ship ascended until it reached a height of nearly two miles. At this point they could see nothing but each other and the stars. The atmosphere was clear and bitterly cold, and they huddled together in the basket to keep themselves warm. Then they descended and came within a few hundred feet of the water. They sighted Oshawa in the distance before it became dark, and came within a few hundred feet of land. Then a change of wind drove them far out out over the lake. Mr. Pirie continues:

A STARTLING PHENOMENON.

"As the evening wore into night a heavy mist rose to the west, or in rear of the balloon. It seemed to follow close behind, but did not overtake it, the air being quite clear in front. At a later period in the night, when two of the reporters went almost asleep, having been singing and endeavoring to pass the time as pleasantly as possible under the circumstances, Mr. Devine who was on the lookout, suddenly called attention to a magnificent burst of light which illuminated the whole sky. He fancied for a moment that the balloon was on fire, but this delusion was quickly dissipated, and the cause of the light was discovered to be a most brilliant meteor, which appeared almost directly overhead, lasting for an instant, and then suddenly darting off in an easterly direction, changed its course and gradually faded away. The spectacle was a singularly impressive one, and will never be forgotton by those who saw it.

STILL IN THE DARK.

"After passing Port Hope, the movements of the balloon became very erratic, the wind blowing from all points of the compass. After drifting about for some time in this purposeless manner the balloon descended to within twenty feet of the waves, which were rolling heavily, the great rope trailing in the lake. As this weight of rope was interfering with the motion of the balloon, the professor's orders were that it should be taken into the car. This was no easy task, as it was an inch thick, and nearly three hundred feet long. It having been coiled in the car after very heavy labor, it was found that the weight on the car was more than the bottom would bear, and it was again gradually let out to the extent of fifty feet. The balloon suddenly dipped into the water and rose again, and again dipped. This was, to say the least of it, unpleasant, and the ballast having been all disposed of, the professor ordered the anchor and the drag line to be thrown overboard, and thus lightened, the balloon sprang upward, and the moon rising, illumined the whole extent of the lake.

SIGHTING A SCHOONER.

The light enabled the party to sight a schooner in the distance, coming toward them from the east in the direct line of the balloon. The party immediately hailed the boat, which replied to the cries, and asked where they were. Naturally, they replied, "up in a balloon," which had such a humorous sound that those on board the schooner uttered some ejaculations of displeasure, and immediately tacked away. This was like the last hope disappearing, and a feeling of dread apprehension fell upon the party. All hope was not, however, abandoned, as it was felt that another vessel might come in sight, or the wind drive the balloon ashore. At about one o'clock the car again dipped in the water and dragged at a fearfully rapid rate through the lake. This necessitated the parties on board clinging to the ropes and standing on the edge of the basket. The cold was intense, and the arms of the reporters became so numbed that holding on was almost mechanical.

THE RESCUE.

When all hope had been abandoned, the professor, from his perch aloft, descried a blue light, which was hung at the masthead of a schooner approaching the balloon. As soon as she came within hailing distance, the distress of the aerial travelers was made known, and a small boat was put out to the rescue. The balloon appeared to be filled with a spirit of contrariness, and instead of waiting to be rescued flew before the wind. Two young men in the boat, whose names were subsequently ascertained to be Henry Loney, aged 21, and Thomas Whallam, aged 18, rowed vigorously for an hour and a half, sometimes nearing the balloon and again left far behind. Fortunately, a dead calm fell, and the boat was enabled to reach the balloon, and the unmanageable monster was towed to shore near Long Point lighthouse, in Athol township, Prince Edward county.

LITERARY SOCIETY IN LONDON.

Literary society in London has a charm peculiar to itself, borrowed possibly in some degree from the quaintness and historic interest of its surroundings. A literary dinner in old Kensington, under the shadow of Holland House, has a character distinctively its own; a supper in an old house on the Strand where Goldsmith and Dr. Johnson supped a century ago, has an air which could hardly be given to the most delightful supper party in New York or Boston. There is a well established air of bonhomie and culture and freedom, with no lack of elegance, about the English literati which makes them charming company on all occasions, a gentle combination of the Bohemian and the man of society, above all a cordial disregard for caste, a quick recognition of genius or merit and a wide, abounding hospitality. No houses are more charming than those of the London literati; weekly receptions are held among them, dinners, suppers. A supper party the other night a little out of town revived one's ideas of the days of "Elia." Around the table was the younger generation of that elder one; sons and daughters of the men who graced Lamb's, Hazlitt's, Wordsworth's boards; a sprinkling of the profession: a celebrated novelist, a well-known singer, a leading authoress from Kensington. We sat about the hospitable board until the "sma' hours." Anecdotes were told, public events, and people, and works discussed. There were sparks of wit which would not have disgraced those earlier days which were here shadowed, songs sang, and music contributed which would have roused an audience of 1830 to enthusiasm. We remember this as a typical English party. The very dishes were English in character; the smoking game pies, the claret cup, were all part of the English element, which we newly experienced.—The Galaxy for August.

LOST IN THE WILDERNESS.

RIVALLING THE OLD STORY OF THE BABES IN THE WOOD—FIVE DAYS LOST IN THE DEPTHS OF A PENNSYLVANIA FOREST.

Sixteen miles from the mountain hamlet at Lackawaxen, over a rougher and tougher forest road than the fabled highway to Jordan, is the little Dutch settlement of Blooming Grove.

A half mile from the beaten track of the turnpike, and on the edge of the famed Blooming Grove Hunting Park, is the little log cabin of Charles Durling. Mr. Durling's house is on the base line of a gloomy divide of the hills, and three or four cabins similar to his own, complete the settlement. On every side, as far as the horizon, is the unbroken expanse of the wilderness, and the black pine and hemlock woods glower above his very door-sill. About half-past three o'clock in the afternoon of June 7th, Mr. Durling's eight children were playing about the door-yard and in the barn, a few rods from the house. The eldest of the number proposed that they go hunting for Mayapples, which grow wild in the swamps at this season of the year. Four of the little ones, John, Lina, Louisa and Herman, started up a steep path that leads up to the mountains, and all were soon eagerly at work in gathering the apples. The elders became so interested in their sport that they forgot to look out for their little brother Herman, who, attracted by the unusual freedom that was given him, gradually wandered away from the party.

He was not missed by his companions until a half hour or more, until, tired with their play, they set out for their home, and then they thought he had gone back alone. At the house they asked their mother if Herman had come home, and when she told them he had not, they began to cry, and said that he must be

LOST IN THE WOODS.

The whole family set off to find the little fellow. In twenty minutes after the disappearance of the boy Mr. Durling was upon the trail, with his children and his immediate neighbors, with their wives and children. All the afternoon they hunted, calling again and again the name of the little wanderer, in vain.

The next day dawned grey and chilly, but saw an unusual sight in the neighborhood. The news of the loss of the little child had spread for miles around, and the whole country wore the quiet appearance of a Sabbath. All joined in the search through Tuesday, threading every woody aisle, and scouring every defile and nook.

All Tuesday night lanterns flashed among the gloomy pines, and groups of men and women searched for miles in every direction, making the hills echo with their cries. It is estimated that the different bands traveled over 3,000 acres of a wilderness, in which frequently the most experienced woodsmen are at fault in traversing. On Wednesday morning the people were still traversing the forest, anxious only to recover the dead body of the little wanderer, for all hope of finding him alive had long since vanished.

FOUND AT LAST.

About eleven o'clock on Wednesday forty or fifty men were following a narrow and devious rabbit path in an almost impenetrable jungle, two or three miles from the settlement, when Levi Lozey and Jim Smith, who were in advance, set up a joyful shout. The whole, though half dead with fatigue, made an enthusiastic rush to the front. In the center of a tangled thicket of birch and underbrush, lying upon his side on a long, black shelving rock, was little Herman fast asleep. He was bareheaded and barefooted, as he went away, and he had taken off his short coat and pants, as though going to sleep in his trundle bed at home. The father sprang forward and clasped his son in his arms. When he recognized who it was that held him, he clasped his hands and asked eagerly for bread and water. One of the men had bread in his pocket; this was given him sparingly, and he was taken to a spring near by and given a small draught of water.

His hair and clothes were filled with mosses, and the surface of the mossed rock was redly imprinted in his cheeks. He was borne at the head of a long procession back to the log cabin, and the mother nearly fainted at the happy refutation of her misgivings.

A day or two ago, at evening, a whippoorwill came singing about the house, and Herman listened for a long time, and at length he broke out with, "Oh, papa, 'ut 'ee bird 'at come and sung to me in 'ee woods all 'ee night."

SINGULAR HUMAN PETRIFACTIONS.

We are informed that on Friday last the graves of a Mr. and Mrs. Kidder, at Eddington Pond, were opened for the purpose of disinterring and removing their remains to another locality. Mrs. Kidder has been dead for eighteen years, while the body of the husband was committed to the earth forty-three years ago. Owing to the length of time which has elapsed, it was not anticipated that anything more than dust, or a few bones at most, would be found. Greatly to the surprise of those present, on opening the grave of Mrs. Kidder, who was over eighty years of age at the time of her decease, her body was found as perfectly preserved and the features as natural as on the day of her burial. Her hair had grown to a considerable length, but the last vestige of her grave clothes had disappeared, leaving a solid petrifaction, not unlike marble, of a grayish tint. Proceeding next to the grave of Mr. Kidder, by the side of the other, it was found that, although nearly half a century had passed since he was numbered among the living, his body had also turned to stone, of a deep rich brown color; but, more singular still, while all the clothing had disappeared from the body of his wife in eighteen years, his body still retained portions of the cloth in which he was dressed for the last time, forty-three years since. In digging for this body no trace of the box or coffin was found, and the petrified remains, of which only the upper part of the skull and portions of the feet had disappeared, lay in several inches of water. When first reached, the workmen supposed they had struck a stone of some kind, and the weight of the body—so remarkably showing nature's intervention to prevent the ordinary processes of decay—was so great that three men were required to lift it.—Bangor Whig.

A SINGULAR MANIA.—An extraordinary mania has arisen among the inhabitants of a number of villages in Western Prussia. They have firmly made up their minds that their Emperor has lost 10,000 Prussian children at cards with the Sultan, and that a large number of Turks are, in consequence, to be sent among them to kidnap their children on their way from school. The school teachers are supposed to be privy to this infamous plot, and are understood to have five thalers promised them for every child abducted. There have been scenes of tumult and violence in consequence, and much difficulty is experienced in allaying the excitement. If there has been any denser ignorance than this since the deluge, there is, at any rate, no historical evidence of it.

OREGON.

Baker City is to have a brass band.

Salmon river is crowded with pleasure seekers; over 200 there.

One dollar was offered for wheat at Wheatland, on Wednesday.

The Albany firemen will bring their new fire hats to Portland on the 3d prox.

Mrs. B. R. Biddle, of Corvallis, has gone to California to reside permanently, perhaps.

The annual meeting of the State Teachers' Institute will be held in Salem on Sept. 1st.

Salem is pretty well thinned out. Everybody who can spare the time going to rusticate.

Fifteen persons were received into full connection in the M. E. church at Wingville on the 18th.

The steamer Eastport brought over forty passengers on her last trip from San Francisco to Coos Bay.

On the 18th, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, of Corvallis, fell down a flight of stairs and was severely injured.

Mr. W. O. Clark, grand worthy patriarch of the Sons of Temperance, has organized five divisions on Coos bay.

Gov. Grover has commissioned Lafayette Williams, and reappointed J. J. Shaw, both of Salem, Notaries Public for Marion county.

The brigantine building at North Bend, Coos bay, will be launched next month. She is 150 feet keel, 39 feet beam, 14 feet hold and will measure about 800 tons. She will be a beautiful craft when completed.

Mr. A. H. Garrison, of Hillsboro, lost quite a sum of money last fall, but is now in luck, his property at Seattle having gone up—in value—and likely to bring in a handsome amount to Mr. Garrison at an early day.

Mr. Jesse Parrish has commenced to harvest his crop of flax, consisting of 100 acres, on his ranch near Marion station. The yield promises to be very good, some of the flax being five feet in hight. He has at present twenty men employed.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.

A correspondent of the OREGONIAN, writing from Jacinto, Colusa county, California, under date of July 16th, says:

On the 15th inst. a very disastrous fire occurred on the premises of Mr. Emmerson, about six miles from here, destroying a large new barn, 50x150 feet, consuming 60 tons of hay, 30 mules, 15 sets of harness, several mowing machines and a considerable quantity of farming utensils. Two men are known to have lost their lives. The bones of one and the charred remains of another were found among the ruins. The fire is supposed to have been caused by some of the work hands returning from a drunken spree. Fires have been of almost daily occurrence of late.

VOLUNTARY STARVATION.—The Kentucky News has this sad story: "Mrs. Kemper, wife of Jasper Kemper, died Sunday morning, June 27th, under peculiar circumstances, which are as follows: About three months since her babe was taken sick and lingered for some time. A few minutes before it died she gave it a dose of medicine by direction of the attending physician, and after it died she took up an idea that she had killed her child. Her friends tried to persuade her that the idea was erroneous, but all to no avail. The thought worked upon her mind until she became frantic. Her only desire was to die, and she tried on several occasions to destroy her life, but was prevented by her faithful husband, who kept strict watch over her. She refused to talk from the beginning, and had not taken a mouthful of food for forty-five days before she was relieved by death.

INDEPENDENT STATE CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Independent State Central Committee, held at Portland, July 16, 1875, it was resolved that a State Independent Convention be held at Salem on the 10th of August, 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a Candidate for Member of Congress.

The basis of representation adopted is one delegate for every 100 votes cast at the last General Election for T. F. Campbell for Governor, one additional for a fraction of 50 or more, and one delegate at large for each county. Under this apportionment, the several counties are entitled to Delegates in the State Convention, as follows:

Baker	2	Lane	6
Benton	5	Linn	8
Coos	2	Marion	8
Curry	1	Multnomah	7
Columbia	2	Polk	3

THE COST OF GOVERNMENT.

We call the attention of those who think the complaints of extravagance in government are unfounded to some facts and figures which have been collected from official sources by the Cincinnati Commercial. The cost of government in this country is compared with the cost in the six principal nations of Europe, as follows:

During the fiscal year 1874, the United States expended, exclusive of expenses for the army and navy pensions and public debt, the enormous amount of $91,834,055, and this with a population of about 40,000,000 souls.

Austria (now known as the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy), with a population of thirty-six millions, expended in its last official budget for all purposes except those above named, only $53,000,000, or about $39,000,000 less than the United States, with nearly the same population. Yet Austria is a monarchy while we are a republic.

France, with a population of 36,000,000, expended, in 1873, on its civil list and administration $60,000,000, as against our $92,000,000. But there were embraced in this eighty-nine millions no less than twenty-five millions for which the Government of the United States has no analogous expenditure.

These items were for public worship, public institutions, museums and fine arts, telegraphic service and prisons—all which expenses in this country are either borne by the state and local governments, or by voluntary contributions. Subtracting these $25,000,000, the expenditure of France for the same objects is $64,000,000 against our $92,000,000.

The empire of Germany has 41,000,000 of people, and an expenditure on its civil list of $110,000,000 per annum; but this embraces the civil government expenses of a dozen separate governments, including Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony, Baden, Wirtemberg, &c. The actual expenses of the confederate imperial government are but little more than half of this, leaving out military and naval charges and public debt.

Great Britain, with a population of 32,000,000 in 1871, expended last year only $56,000,000 on its administration and civil list. But this included the enormous proportion of $21,000,000 for the administration of justice, prison and police, which in our country falls wholly upon the local governments, except about $4,000,000 for the courts of the United States. Great Britain, moreover, expended $12,000,000 out of its $56,000,000 for public instruction, for which our federal government has no corresponding expenditure to show. It follows that we in the United States are maintaining the general government at a cost about three times as great, comparatively, for administrative purposes, as that of Great Britain, which is so often denounced as extravagant.

The kingdom of Italy, with 27,000,000 inhabitants, spends $30,000,000 on administration; but two-thirds of this sum is expended on such items as prisons, police, railroads, telegraphs, roads and canals, agriculture and public instruction. So that Italy expends only about $15,000,000 annually on administration, against our $92,000,000.

Lastly, Russia, with its enormous population in Europe and Asia of 82,000,000 souls, expends only $135,000,000 on administration, at least one-third of which is for objects which, in the United States, do not constitute a charge upon the national treasury.

If the Russian expenditure were on the same scale as our own (taking into account the difference in population), it would rise to one hundred and eighty-four millions as the annual cost of its civil service, instead of about one hundred millions, as at present. On the other hand, were the United States to practice the same economy of administration as prevails on the average in the six foremost nations in the world, it would cut down our civil list from ninety-two millions per annum to less than fifty millions.

The reason for leaving out of the comparison the expenses of the armies of the respective governments, is obvious. The United States keeps no standing army, while the European military establishments are large. The expenses of the military arm of the government have no connection with those of the civil government. It is a fact which will surprise most Americans, but a fact nevertheless, that civil government costs more in republican America, population relatively considered, than in any of the leading governments of monarchical Europe. The simplicity and economy which are supposed to distinguish our form of government, exist only in theory. It is difficult to account for this, without assuming that vast amounts of the public revenue are used for purposes that do not fall within the legitimate scope of government. It goes to feed the retainers of politicians, to support party organizers and organizations, to enrich families whose short lease of power makes it important for them to secure the greatest possible amount of plunder in the shortest space of time. Let the people ponder these figures well, and say then whether there is not cause not only for complaint, but for alarm.

NO MESSAGE YET.

Another meeting of the Common Council has passed and still the Mayor has no message to the council giving information of the condition of the affairs of the city. It begins to look as if the Mayor had come to the conclusion to disregard entirely this duty imposed upon him by the organic law of the city. What excuse he can offer for such a course, we can not imagine. It is not merely an unnecessary and useless custom he is violating; it is a positive duty prescribed by the charter, and concerning the obligation of which there can be no difference of opinion. Does the Mayor propose to defy the authority of the charter before the ink is dry on the oath subscribed faithfully to discharge the duties devolved on him by it?

We have not referred to this subject now or heretofore merely because it presents an opportunity to criticise the course of the Mayor, but because it is public concern of no inconsiderable moment. The people have been accustomed annually to be informed through the publication of the Mayor's Message, as to all matters relating to the welfare and prosperity of the community. It was doubtless for this purpose, as well as for the information of the council that such a provision was inserted in the charter. If Mayor Chapman is not going to disregard this duty entirely, it is time for him to be doing something.

THE POSTAL SENSATION.

The Evening Journal, of yesterday, made its charges in connection with the loss of a mail bag more specific. The charge, succinctly stated, is, that some time since a mail bag containing some $4,000, which was being transmitted through the mails, was traced to the Portland office, from which it was delivered to Thomas Cox, mail agent on the east side cars, since which time it has never been seen; and that Postal Agent Underwood, being informed in the premises, winked at the matter, instead of pushing an investigation. The Journal goes more into details, but what we have stated is the gravamen of its charge. It is matter of public concern, and if the Journal has sufficient evidence of the truth of its allegations, it deserves commendation for bringing the subject to public notice.

For several months past it has been known in Portland, and we presume elsewhere, that a mail bag containing treasure, which had been traced to the Portland office, had never been accounted for, or so far as is known, received, at the next office in its line of travel. A good deal of investigation, and a good deal more of surmise, has been had, and, thus far, without getting hold of any clue to the robbery. The postal law is defective in not providing the office which forwards such matter with some protection against the suspicion of dishonesty which may arise from the loss of the bag after it leaves him and before it reaches the next office. It is impossible to tell from the receipts alone whether a bag is lost at an office or on the way between offices.

While there has been a good deal of back office talk, and some street gossip about this affair, we never heard Mr. Cox's name mentioned in connection with it as a suspected party till we saw it in the Journal. Other parties have been suspected, but apparently on very imperfect evidence in all cases.

Thus the matter stands at this time. Meanwhile Postal Agent Underwood promptly and very properly calls the attention of the U. S. District Attorney to the case, and requests a full investigation. So it is likely the bottom will be reached at last, or else it will be ascertained that the bottom is not to be reached at all.

DEMOCRACY IN MARYLAND AND IN OHIO.

Democracy in Maryland and Democracy in Ohio are entirely different things. In Ohio, Democracy means indefinite increase of irredeemable paper currency. In Maryland, as will be seen by the platform adopted by the State convention of that State, it means exactly the opposite—that is, hard money and a resumption of specie payment at the earliest practical day. There is no question that this subject is destined to be the battle ground of political contests hereafter, till it is finally decidedly whether the United States is to have rags or money for a circulating medium and measure of value. Hence these radical differences of opinion among the faithful are justly considered to have great significance.

Maryland Democracy is the same as the Democracy in all the States along the Atlantic sea-board. In the west the party is apparently pretty generally committed to the inflation idea. The conflict to which the question gave rise in the ranks of the party in Ohio, first in the Cleveland convention and afterwards in the State convention, indicated that there is to be no compromise between the hard money crowd and the rag money crowd. They are going to fight it to the bitter end. If it makes such a conflict in a local convention, where the same local influences have sway in all classes of the party, how will it affect a National convention? If Ohio cannot be harmonious on the question, how will Ohio and Maryland harmonize? It is hardly too much to say, in the light of the present situation, that the question is likely to produce irreconcilable differences, and to rupture the party in the nation. It surely will, unless one side or the other shall back squarely out of their present position.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE MORALS OF ABOU BEN ADHEM; by D. R. Locke, (Petroleum V. Nasby) Boston; Lee & Shepherd. For sale by J. K. Gill & Co. Price, $1 50.

This book is in different vein from those writings of Mr. Locke, with which the public mind is most familiar. There is much of the genuine humor that marked the earlier of the Nasby papers, but there is a more refined tone and a lack of the dialect feature which was always prominent. In the Morals of Abou Ben Adhem—a title which conveys not the slightest idea of the character of the book—the foibles and weaknesses of society are hit off with admirable effect. One can find not only amusement but wisdom also, on almost every page; but if one is at all sensitive about having ridiculous points in his manners brought into strong relief, he need not expect to enjoy the book very hugely. There is more comfort, however, in the fact that the hardest hits are always directed at the reader's neighbors instead of himself. Abou Ben Adhem is a Maine Yankee, who has been at one time and another, and under several aliases, dancing master, horse tamer, singing school teacher, dentist, broker, editor of a newspaper, preacher, wild-cat banker and counterfeiter, in the course of which varied employments he has naturally become pretty well "up to snuff" in general. He finally turns up in the State of New Jersey, dressed in flowing black robes, with his long snowy locks (bought at the wig maker's) falling from beneath a voluminous white turban. He buys a little piece of land near the town, and sets up as a Persian philosopher and magician, and to him the credulous people flock to have him advise them out of their troubles, settle their occupations, foretell their future and show them the way to success in their undertakings and ambitions. The interviews between the magician and his visitors afford an excellent opportunity for touching up human nature and the customs of society, and the author makes the most of the plan thus happily conceived.

THE CASE OF INCEST.—Allusion was made in the OREGONIAN yesterday of a reported case of incest which was alleged to have recently taken place in Yamhill county the parties to the revolting crime being a man named Reed and his daughter a young lady A gentleman who arrived here yesterday from the vicinity where the crime was committed furnishes the following additional particulars Reed the unnatural and inhuman father resides on the North Yamhill, some distance from Lafayette He is the father of two daughters the eldest of whom is 19 years of age During the absence a few days ago of all the members of the family with the exception of Reed and the eldest daughter the father made improper advances toward the girl His infamous proposals were indignantly repelled by the daughter Failing to accomplish his incestuous design by gentle means, he invoked the authority of a parent. The daughter defied his authority and refused to obey when the father drew a pistol and threatened to shoot her dead unless she submitted to his wishes Rather than lose that which was dearer to her than life, the resolute girl told him to shoot saying she would die before submitting to such a revolting and unnatural crime However the licentious wretch did not fire. Though baffled by his daughter but undeterred from further efforts Soon after the eldest daughter discovered beyond doubt that her father was maintaining criminal relations with her youngest sister, and made complaint to the neighbors. A partial investigation as to the truth of the oldest daughter's charges, proved beyond question that Reed had been committing incest with the second daughter for a long time—ever since she was 12 years of age A complaint was lodged against Reed without delay and he was arrested. A preliminary examination was had in the case, and the defendant held to answer before the next grand jury the revolting crime of incest, in the sum of $2 600. Reed at last accounts, was unable to furnish the required bail, and was lying in jail at Lafayette Great indignation is felt and expressed by the people of that section of the country over the affair Our informant states that had the neighbors got hold of the incestuous villain before he was placed in jail they would undoubtedly have dealt with him as his crime deserved

PAIR OF HUMAN HANDS.—Yesterday while Chief Lappeus was walking leisurely up Alder street, between Second and Third, in the vicinity of some Chinese quarters he was surprised to observe the somewhat ghastly spectacle of a pair of human hands dangling by a string from the second story window of a Chinese tenement. So extraordinary a sight astonished the Chief beyond measure and demanded an explanation Without a moment's hesitation, the officer entered the building and ordered the occupants to take the hands in the house and out of the gaze of the public. He then demanded an explanation of the mysterious affair In response to his inquiries, he learned that the hands belonged to the body of a Chinaman who died some time ago up at Lewiston According to an established custom the body was sent down to Portland for the purpose of shipping it back to China When the body reached here it became necessary to cut it up into pieces, to-day so that it might occupy the least possible space. The hands after being severed from the arms at the wrists, were hung up in the sun to dry, when they were incidentally discovered by the chief.

DOG KIDNAPPED.—Great commotion was caused yesterday among the juvenile population of Washington street by the capture of a diminutive specimen of the canine species by one of the agents of the pound keeper It seems that the purp was quietly basking in the sunlight on the front doorstep, when the watchful agent aforesaid slipped a noose over its unsuspecting and unlicensed neck, and made off with him. The barking and scratching of the victim soon brought the owner a small girl, to the rescue, who followed and finally got possession of the dog through the timely interposition of a passing teamster and in spite of the shocking oaths and threats of the kidnapper Though a firm upholder of the majesty of the law, as enforced by 'Gassy Charley' and his minions, we, in common with the troops of juveniles present sympathized with the little girl, and rejoiced with her in the recovery of her pretty little pet

AN INVALID.—The Corvallis Gazette says "On last Monday a spring hack halted in front of our office door, and upon stepping out we found Mrs Dr Kellogg, of Portland lying upon a bed in the carriage She was accompanied by her two sons, little grandson and a lady. Instead of the sprightly active lady of a few months since, Mrs K is an emaciated, helpless, invalid Upon inquiry, we found her affliction was in consequence of the explosion of the ill fated Senator, opposite Portland, a few months since Her children were conveying her to Mr Stephen Robinett's in this county, in the hope that a change of atmosphere and location might serve to revive her prostrated nervous system"

PRIZE RIFLE MATCH.—The evening cotemporary is authority for the statement that it is the intention of Dr Kiel, of Aurora to make the necessary arrangements at that place for a grand rifle shooting match in which all crack sharpshots in the State are to participate The contest will begin sometime near the end of harvest, and continue one full week The existing club of German sharpshooters in this city the members of which have had considerable practice firing at 800, 900 and 1 000 yards with the famous Remington rifle will take part and it is thought they will bring the prize to Portland

A NARROW ESCAPE.—From the Star we learn that as Mr J H Fairchild who has been transacting business in Portland and who left for home this morning while at Albany last Wednesday, had a narrow escape from an accident. He was standing on the step of his buggy with one foot on the sidewalk when a team came rushing past, and the wheels of the two vehicles passed within two inches of each other, and had they struck it is probable Mr F. would have been knocked senseless and severely wounded

CAUGHT FIRE.—A young son of Lot Livermore, who resides near Milwaukie, had a narrow escape from burning recently The child was playing near a stove and the mother was absent from the room A spark alighted on the child's clothing and commenced burning. At the sight, he screamed and his mother came rushing into the room, and displayed rare presence of mind by wrapping her dress about the child, thus extinguishing the flames The burns are not serious.

EXCURSIONISTS.—The following persons from this city were at Unity Washington Territory, during the week ending July 20th: J. J. Eluck, J. W. Carter Chas Tinsley P. G. Virgil, Dr Alfred Kinney and wife Miss Fanny Dickenson Ida Gilman Miss C Wass, Dr I G Glenn and daughter Henry Denlinger and family and Miss I Humphrey Besides the above were many from Salem Oysterville, Albany, Fort Canby Astoria and other places.

COUNTY TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—The Templars in the different precincts in this county are called to meet on Saturday July 31st and elect delegates to the county convention which meets at Good Templar Hall in this city on Saturday, August 7th Each precinct is entitled to one delegate for each fifty votes polled at the last election

SURVEYING PARTY.—On Thursday morning a party of men consisting of Messrs Hurlburt, Bacon Kline and others left Portland on a surveying expedition in the vicinity of Siletz Indian Agency The party expect to be absent about six months. They go well equipped and prepared to stand a vigorous time roughing it

ARRESTED.—Capt Noyes of the bark Garibaldi, was arrested yesterday by U S Marshal Malarkey, charged with a violation of the passenger act The U S grand jury returned a true bill a few days ago and a warrant was issued for his arrest. The defendant furnished the required bonds, and was released at once

PORTLAND DELINQUENTS.—On Monday 26th inst., the sheriffs of Clarke and Cowlitz counties, W T will sell real estate to satisfy claims for taxes delinquent. Among the delinquents we note the names of several Portlanders in the Vancouver Register The time is [illegible]

A CRUEL DRIVER.—We are informed that a driver of one of the wood wagons about the city beat his horses in a most cruel and shameful manner on Thursday morning near the corner of Stark and Seventh streets When first observed one of the animals was down and the brutal driver was pounding it about the head with the butt of a heavy whip He continued to beat the horses until the blood ran from their nostrils The shameful affair was witnessed by a number of ladies in the immediate vicinity who without exception speak in the severest condemnatory terms of the brutality of the driver At length the attention of a gentleman was called to the inhuman proceeding who approached the driver and began to remonstrate with him about his brutality and asked him to desist from beating the poor animals When addressed by the gentleman the driver flew into a furious rage and threatened to beat out his brains if he dared to interfere with business which did not concern him The heartless wretch continued to beat the horses until he was compelled to desist from sheer exhaustion He then got into the wagon and drove off. Those who witnessed the brutal affair state that there did not appear to be the least provocation for such a display of brutal and ungovernable temper Unfortunately for the cause of justice the driver is not known or he would be snaked instanter by the police He richly deserves severe punishment

PORTLAND SOCIAL CLUB.—Thursday evening a number of young gentlemen organized an association for the purpose of self amusement. The club is to be known as the Portland Social Club A permanent organization was effected by the election of the following officers President J Rector Vice President Geo Crawford Treasurer Wm Lowe Secretary D Howe Regular meetings of the club will be held every Saturday

OFFICERS ELECTED.—The following are the officers of Lee Encampment No 7 G R C Commander J M Well Ir Com Amanda J Moore R S J, W Starr F S J Calvert F Sarah Rafferty I G W A Kul O G Samuel Moore J J Houston was recommended for D D G C

MASS MEETING.—Dr York will speak in East Portland park next Sunday at 2 P M Liberals and free thinkers come to the front Christian friends come let us reason together and have a good time Good music will be in attendance.

BISHOP PECK.—This eminent divine preached to a crowded church at Hillsboro on Thursday The people were highly pleased at having so distinguished a personage visit the town and county

THE LAST BOAT.—The traveling public are requested to bear in mind that passengers who leave Portland next Monday morning will connect with the last Lewiston boat for this season

AMUSEMENTS

The Alleghanians are at Olympia to-day which place they will leave on Monday morning, arriving in good season for the opening at New Market Theater the same evening The agent has done his work effectually and no doubt large audiences will be the result during the entire week of their stay A rare musical treat novel in the extreme is in store for our citizens Full particulars concerning the sale of seats, etc will be found in our advertising columns Everywhere the Alleghanians have met with great success and a grand ovation awaits them here

BRIEF NOTES.

Base ball is very quiet now

The Alleghanians are coming

Plenty of amusement next week

An abundance of berries in the markets

Cultivated blackberries are commencing to ripen

Cherries are reckoned among the things of the past

The majority of summer travel is Astoria ward at present

Temperature a little lower yesterday than the preceding day

Paper collars can't stand the press this sweltering weather

The river is slowly crawling down toward the low water mark

Quite an invigorating breeze was stirring yesterday at intervals

Steamer [illegible] will sail to-day from San Francisco for Portland

A sickening odor emanates from the Chinese quarters this warm weather

California grapes (grapes as some persist in calling them) have appeared in the market

With scarcely an exception all the social societies of the city have adjourned until fall

There have been twenty five accessions to the Baptist church since Mr Harmon left

Proposed—an ice cream festival at the Skating Rink under the auspices of the Y M C A

Our streets do not present so lively an appearance since the annual exodus of summer travel

Some of the schools will open in August but the most of them will resume studies in September

Boat riding has been a favorite recreation during the warm and beautiful evenings of the past week

The Methodist conference will convene at Salem on the 11th of next month Bishop Peck presiding

Edward Coleman a well known young man of this city departs for San Francisco soon to engage in business there

Patients are being added to the St Vincent's Hospital quite rapidly There are seven already in that institution

Fifteen persons united with the Presbyterian church Thursday evening and about 20 more are expected to join

Wm Saunders formerly of Portland was installed recently as Sachem of Mohcomi Tribe I O R M at Marshfield

Prof S W King of the public school is at present visiting relatives and friends in the "rooral districts" in Yamhill county

We are in receipt of the annual catalogue of Philomath college Benton county That institution appears to be in a prosperous condition

Many of our prominent citizens are robbing the heated term of its discomforts by a temporary sojourn at the Seaside house Clatsop beach

Frank Arnold formerly of the postoffice in this city is at present a resident of Coos county He is connected with the Coal Mining Co there

Rogerson who had his leg amputated at the knee and the Chinaman who lost an arm are both progressing nicely, and will soon be convalescent

Mrs T P Church who was connected for some time with the Portland Academy, is we learn enjoying good health at her home in San Francisco

Nearly all of the teachers connected with the public schools of the city are out rusticating and recuperating their wearied energies for another year's toil

The sloop Buckeye of Kalama is discharging a cargo of lumber near the foot of F street The lumber will be employed in the construction of McCraken's wharf

A drunken man engaged in a fight with a lamp post the other evening and if battered hands and a bruised face are a sign of defeat we opine the drunkard got worsted

Rev T F Royal of the Portland academy, and family are spending their vacation in the vicinity of Siletz river by fishing hunting etc and enjoying themselves in various ways

The question as to who are to be police judge and city attorney having been settled, the next conundrum which is agitating the public mind is "Who shall be street commissioner?"

A few evenings since a clerk was walking down a pair of dimly lighted stairs into a cellar when he stumbled and fell over a package which had been left on one of the steps His head was slightly injured

For the present the steamer Gov Grover is lying on the east side of the river at a point just south of the dismantled hull of the old Senator She has been temporarily withdrawn from the up river trade

Pollin a young son of A Waltz was badly burned on the arms and shoulders last Tuesday by falling into some hot oil which he had accidentally upset on the floor The flesh is nearly burned off the arms and it will be some time before the patient recovers

The appearance of the new postoffice building has been much improved recently by painting and the grounds have been under the care of a landscape gardener and show much improvement Contractors in this city are at work upon the furniture for the different rooms which are now completed and ready to receive it

BALL AND BAT

The Washington base ball club professionals has disbanded

There will be a game this afternoon on the grounds in East Portland commencing at 3 30 o clock between the Arcadian and Pioneer clubs

The Boston Hartford Athletic and St Louis clubs lead for the championship in the order named Ten clubs are in the arena now the Centennials Washingtons and Westerns having disbanded with a certainty of others doing likewise ere the close of the season

Says the Chronicle "The Alert and San Francisco Base Ball Clubs played a match game on the 18th inst The game was one of the series for the championship of the coast The former club won by a score of 13 to 9 This game gives the Alerts the precedence in the race They have won three games and lost one The Californias come next with two games won (one of which is disputed in convention by the Alerts) and one lost The San Franciscos have won one game and lost two and the Occidentals have lost the only two they have played The Grand Centrals of Oakland one of the most formidable clubs last year has not played a game in the series but will in a week or two" Perhaps arrangements can be made by our local base ball players to play the winners of the California championship a series of games for the championship of the coast at a place to be hereafter agreed upon Will the Oregon clubs take the proper steps in the matter and have the question of superiority decided this season

BUSINESS NOTICES.

From the Mountaineer we learn that Hon S Ellsworth grand representative to the Grand Lodge I O O F of the United States in company with his daughter Miss Hattie starts overland for the Atlantic states from La Grande on the 16th inst They will be absent about three months

Go to Central Market to-day and Fabre & Barnes will give you something rare

CHROMOS FOR ALL.—An extensive stock of chromos has been opened in the store adjoining the postoffice by Mr L W Ryan These chromos were selected personally during a recent visit to the east and will be offered at low prices Call and examine

If you once wear an Elmwood collar, you will not be satisfied in wearing any other

FOR THE LADIES

A great deal of fruit is used for the ornamentation of straw bonnets such as white and red currants cherries and mulberries

Toile de Vichy makes a very pretty country suit and when properly handled and the colors well selected it is even very elegant A handsome suit of this kind may be in cream color and pink

Fichus are much used by young ladies for in door wear the ones the Marie Antoinette form joined in the back the Lamballe fichu fastened on the side of the waist with a velvet or ribbon rosette and the Paysanne closed over the breast

Scalloping is very fashionable at present a novelty in this line is a white batiste three cornered collar surrounded by a band of pale blue batiste scalloped with pink cotton under this is a pink batiste band scalloped with pale blue cotton The undersleeves should correspond

The Marie Antoinette hat has met with more success for negligee purposes than was expected The most difficult bonnets to plan are those intended for misses and elderly ladies the coquettish style not being suitable for either In the case of a young lady the head must be modestly shown while for an elderly lady it is necessary on the contrary to wholly cover it

The present style in aprons cuirasses and tuniques favors all sorts of economical arrangements if the fair sex will only take advantage of the privilege For morning wear two linen suits and one suit of fancy woolen goods are quite sufficient for afternoon wear, a black faille dress is necessary with a variety of aprons tuniques and cuirasses made of grenadine, crepe de Chine and beaded lace

A stylish suit may be of dove colored fancy checked and plain goods The skirt has a short train surrounded by five narrow box pleated flounces alternating in the checked and plain goods The apron is draped and shirred in the back each side of the shirrs is a heading of plain goods it is fastened down under a loop and long ends of dove colored ribbon The waist has a long square basque in front and a postilion in the back surrounded by a small box pleated ruffle Down the middle of the back of the waist are butterfly bows The lingerie is of ruched batiste and lace

Fabre & Barnes—Central Market

Genuine imported Vichy water and the delicious creme Polar soda water can only be had at Pfunder's German pharmacy, New Theatre block

KOHN is making quite an attractive display in his new store corner of First and Morrison streets The new goods have arrived and his customers new and old may find some really handsome styles for summer wear In Furnishing Goods he can accommodate the most fastidious He knows the wants of the people and now none need complain about the scarcity of styles and the quality of the fabrics offered The prices are regulated according to the times

For the summer and fall season some new and appropriate styles in clothing have been introduced The large and varied stock at BECK & WALDMAN'S is worthy of inspection by all intending to buy something unusually new and attractive Their late arrivals of Furnishing Goods are also very fine and must meet with great favor This firm continue to offer special inducements in youths clothing In every respect their stock is complete

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed WALLER & SON Oak street between First and Second will serve Ham Lunches to their patrons at all hours The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING their own preparation is meeting with great favor Try it

A Double Danger Averted.

The inhabitant of a malarious region is threatened by a double danger He is not only compelled to breathe miasma but to swallow it since it infects not only the atmosphere but the water The aerial poison threatens his system through the lungs and pores the liquid through the stomach Against this double peril there is but one protection and that is to invigorate the entire body through the digestive and secretive organs Ordinary tonics usually fail to accomplish this—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters never In the tropics where the diseases originated by malaria are of a far more malignant type than those originated by the same cause in the temperate zone, it enjoys immense and constantly increasing sales and there is no portion of this continent where it is not the reigning specific for miasmatic fevers and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels proceeding from malaria and other causes.

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 24 1875

MR LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

In connection with the commencement exercises of Bowdoin College on the 6th instant, the class of 1825 celebrated the fiftieth anniversary at which time Henry W Longfellow a member of the class read the following poem written for the occasion

MORITURI SALUTAMUS

Tempora labuntur tacitisque senescimus annis
Et fugiunt freno non remorante dies
OVID Fastorum Lib vi

O Cæsar we who are about to die
Salute you was the gladiators cry
In the arena standing face to face
With death and with the Roman populace

O ye familiar scenes—ye groves of pine
That once were mine and are no longer mine—
Thou river widening through the meadows green
To the vast sea so near and yet unseen—

Ye halls in whose seclusion and repose
Phantoms of fame like exhalations rose
And vanished—we who are about to die
Salute you earth and air and sea and sky
And the Imperial Sun that scatters down
His sovereign splendors upon grove and town

Ye do not answer us! ye do not hear
We are forgotten and in your austere
And calm indifference ye little care
Whether we come or go or whence or where
What passing generations fill these halls
What passing voices echo from these walls
Ye heed not we are only as the blast
A moment heard and then forever past

Not so the teachers who in earlier days
Led our bewildered feet through learning's maze
They answer us—alas! what have I said?
What greetings come there from the voiceless dead?
What salutation welcome or reply?
What pressure from the hands that lifeless lie?
They are no longer here they all are gone
Into the land of shadows—all save one
Honor and reverence and the good repute
That follows faithful service as its fruit,
Be unto him whom living we salute

The great Italian poet, when he made
His dreadful journey to the realms of shade
Met there the old instructor of his youth
And cried in tones of pity and of ruth
O never from the memory of my heart
Your dear paternal image shall depart,
Who while on earth, ere yet by death surprised,
Taught me how mortals are immortalized;
How grateful am I for that patient care
All my life long my language shall declare

To-day we make the poet's words our own
And utter them in plaintive undertone
Nor to the living only be they said
But to the other living called the dead,
Whose dear, paternal images appear
Not wrapped in gloom but robed in sunshine here
Whose simple lives complete and without flaw,
Were part and parcel of great Nature's law

Who said not to their Lord as if afraid
Here is thy talent in a napkin laid
But labored in their sphere as those who live
In the delight that work alone can give
Peace be to them eternal peace and rest,
And the fulfillment of the great behest
Ye have been faithful over a few things,
Over ten cities shall ye reign as kings.'

And ye who fill the places we once filled
And follow in the furrows that we tilled
Young men, whose generous hearts are beating high,
We who are old, and are about to die
Salute you hail you, take your hands in ours
And crown you with our welcome as with flowers!

How beautiful is youth! how bright it gleams
With its illusions aspirations dreams!
Book of Beginnings Story without End
Each maid a heroine and each man a friend!
Aladdin's Lamp and Fortunatus Purse
That holds the treasures of the universe!
All possibilities are in its hands,
No danger daunts it, and no foe withstands
In its sublime audacity of faith
Be thou removed! it to the mountain saith
And with ambitious feet, secure and proud,
Ascends the ladder leaning on the cloud!

As ancient Priam at the Scæan gate
Sat on the walls of Troy in regal state
With the old men too old and weak to fight,
Chirping like grasshoppers in their delight
To see the embattled hosts with spear and shield
Of Trojans and Achaians in the field
So from the snowy summits of our years
We see you in the plain as each appears,
And question of you asking Who is he
That towers above the others? Which may be
Atreides, Menelaus Odysseus
Ajax the great or bold Idomeneus?'

Let him not boast who puts his armor on
As he who puts it off the battle done
Study yourselves and most of all note well
Wherein kind Nature meant you to excel
Not every blossom ripens into fruit
Minerva, the inventress of the flute
Flung it aside when she her face surveyed
Distorted in a fountain as she played,
The unlucky Marsyas found it and his fate
Was one to make the bravest hesitate.

Write on your doors the saying wise and old,
'Be bold! be bold! and everywhere be bold
Be not too bold!' Yet better the excess
Than the defect better the more than less,
Better like Hector in the field to die
Than like a perfumed Paris turn and fly

And now my classmates ye remaining few
That number not the half of those we knew
Ye against whose familiar names not yet
The fatal asterisk of death is set
Ye I salute! The horologe of Time
Strikes the half century with a solemn chime
And summons us together once again
The joy of meeting not unmixed with pain

Where are the others? Voices from the deep
Caverns of darkness answer me They sleep!
I name no names instinctively I feel
Each at some well remembered grave will kneel,
And from the inscription wipe the weeds and moss

For every heart best knoweth its own loss
I see the scattered gravestones gleaming white
Through the pale dusk of the impending night
O'er all alike the impartial sunset throws
Its golden lilies mingled with the rose
We give to all a tender thought, and pass
Out of the graveyards with their tangled grass
Unto these scenes frequented by our feet
When we were young and life was fresh and sweet.

What shall I say to you? What can I say
Better than silence is? When I survey
This throng of faces turned to meet my own
Friendly and fair and yet to me unknown
Transformed the very landscape seems to be
It is the same, yet not the same to me
So many memories crowd upon my brain
So many ghosts are in the wooded plain
I fain would steal away with noiseless tread,
As from a house where some one lieth dead

I cannot go I pause I hesitate,
My feet reluctant linger at the gate;
As one who struggles in a troubled dream
To speak and cannot to myself I seem

Vanish the dream! Vanish the idle fears
Vanish the rolling mists of fifty years
Whatever time or space may intervene
I will not be a stranger in this scene.
Here every doubt, all indecision ends
Hail, my companions, comrades, classmates, friends

Ah me! the fifty years since last we met
Seem to me fifty folios bound and set
By Time, the great transcriber, on his shelves
Wherein are written the histories of ourselves.
What tragedies, what comedies, are there,
What joy and grief, what rapture and despair!
What chronicles of triumph and defeat,
Of struggle, and temptation, and retreat!
What records of regrets, and doubts, and fears!
What pages blotted blistered by our tears!
What lovely landscapes on the margin shine
What sweet, angelic faces, what divine
And holy images of love and trust
Undimmed by age unsoiled by damp or dust!
Whose hand shall dare to open and explore
These volumes closed and clasped for evermore
Not mine With reverential feet I pass,
I hear a voice that cries, Alas! alas!
Whatever hath been written shall remain,
Nor be erased nor written o'er again
The unwritten only still belongs to thee
Take heed, and ponder well what that shall be

As children frightened by a thunder cloud
Are reassured if some one reads aloud
A tale of wonder with enchantment fraught,
Or wild adventure that diverts their thought;
Let me endeavor with a tale to chase
The gathering shadows of the time and place
And banish what we all too deeply feel
Wholly to say or wholly to conceal

In mediæval Rome I know not where
There stood an image with its arm in air
And on its lifted finger shining clear
A golden ring with the device Strike here!
Greatly the people wondered though none guessed
The meaning that these words but half expressed
Until a learned clerk, who at noonday
With downcast eyes, was passing on his way
Paused and observed the spot and marked it well
Whereon the shadow of the finger fell
And coming back at midnight delved and found
A secret stairway leading under ground!
Down this he passed into a spacious hall
Lit by a flaming jewel on the wall
And opposite a brazen statue stood
With bow and shaft in threatening attitude
Upon its forehead like a coronet,
Were these mysterious words of menace set —
That which I am I am my fatal aim
None can escape not even yon luminous flame
Midway the hall was a fair table placed
With cloth of gold and golden cups enchased
With rubies and the plates and knives were gold
And gold the bread and viands manifold
Around it, silent motionless and sad
Were seated gallant knights in armor clad
And ladies beautiful with plume and zone
But they were stone their hearts within were stone
And the vast hall was filled in every part
With silent crowds stony in face and heart.

Long at the scene bewildered and amazed
The trembling clerk in speechless wonder gazed
Then from the table by his greed made bold,
He seized a goblet and a knife of gold
And suddenly from their seats the guests up sprang,
The vaulted ceiling with loud clamors rang
The archer sped his arrow at their call
Shattering the lambent jewel on the wall
And all was dark around and overhead —
Stark on the floor the luckless clerk lay dead!

The writer of this legend then records
Its ghostly application in these words —
The image is the adversary old
Whose beckoning finger points to realms of gold
Our lusts and passions are the downward stair
That leads the soul from a diviner air
The archer Death; the flaming jewel Life
Terrestrial goods, the goblet and the knife
The knights and ladies all whose flesh and bone
By avarice have been hardened into stone
The clerk the scholar whom the love of pelf
Tempts from his books and from his nobler self
The scholar and the world The endless strife
The discord in the harmonies of life!
The love of learning the sequestered nooks,
And all the sweet serenity of books
The market place the eager love of gain
Whose aim is vanity and whose end is pain

But why you ask me should this tale be told
To men grown old or who are growing old
It is too late! Ah nothing is too late
Till the tired heart shall cease to palpitate
Cato learned Greek at eighty Sophocles
Wrote his grand Œdipus and Simonides
Bore off the prize of verses from his compeers
When each had numbered more than fourscore years
And Theophrastus at fourscore and ten
Had but begun his Characters of Men
Chaucer at Woodstock with the nightingale
At sixty wrote the Canterbury Tale
Goethe at Weimar toiling to the last
Completed Faust when eighty years were past
These are indeed exceptions but they show
How far the gulf stream of our youth may flow
Into the arctic regions of our lives
Where little else than life itself survives

As the barometer foretells the storm
While still the skies are clear the weather warm
So something in us as old age draws near
Betrays the pressure of the atmosphere
The nimble mercury ere we are aware
Descends the elastic ladder of the air
The telltale blood in artery and vein
Sinks from its higher levels in the brain
Whatever poet orator, or sage
May say of it old age is still old age
It is the waning not the crescent moon
The dusk of evening, not the blaze of noon
It is not strength but weakness not desire
But its surcease not the fierce heat of fire
The burning and consuming element
But that of ashes and of embers spent
In which some living sparks we still discern
Enough to warm but not enough to burn

What then? Shall we sit idly down and say
The night hath come it is no longer day?
The night hath not yet come we are not quite
Cut off from labor by the failing light
Something remains for us to do or dare
Even the oldest tree some fruit may bear
Not Œdipus Coloneus or Greek Ode
Or tales of pilgrims that one morning rode
Out of the gateway of the Tabard Inn
But other something would we but begin
For age is opportunity no less
Than youth itself though in another dress
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars, invisible by day

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The same feeling of firmness noted yesterday is continued to day and though no important transactions have come to light, quotations are nominally $1 50@1 75 per cental

FLOUR—In sympathy with the firm tone of the wheat market, flour as predicted by us yesterday has been advanced to day to $6 ₿ bbl for leading brands and is firm at that figure Other grades have kept pace with the standard extras and are quotable 50@75c lower or $5 50 ₿ bbl for outside brands and $5 for superfine

OATS—There is less excitement in this cereal than prevailed earlier in the week and it is now too late in the season and the surplus of the old crop too nearly exhausted to get up much feeling The demand is fair and jobbers and shippers quietly take the few lots that offer at 65@70c ₿ bushel

HAY—A full supply in the market quotable at $10@11 ₿ ton for fair to best timothy loose and $11 baled

POTATOES—The market is in fair supply at [illegible] $1 ₿ bushel

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable at 2c ₿ lb nominally

APPLES DRIED—The demand is hardly so active, and receipts have somewhat fallen off The out going steamer to day carried none Quotations are nominal at 7½@8c ₿ lb

BACON—The demand at San Francisco is reported dull We quote our home market quiet at 11@12c ₿ lb for sides, 8@9c for shoulders and 11½@12½c for hams All kinds in fair supply

EGGS—There has been a continued fair demand for the local trade and for shipment. Prices are kept at 27½@30 cents per dozen fresh laid commanding the latter figure quite readily

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₿ lb in kegs or tins and is in brisk demand

BUTTER—We quote fair to choice roll at [illegible] ₿ lb, extra print for table use 30@35c, common solid 18@20.

CHICKENS—The market is in liberal supply quotations for full grown $1 25@4 50 per dozen, spring $2 50@2 75

BEEF CATTLE—Some very fine arrivals have been noticed during the week and the market is supplied with an excellent stock. Slaughterers prices are $3 75@4 25 per cwt net, or $1 75@2 00 on foot.

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is light at $2@2 75 per head

DRESSED HOGS—There is some inquiry for the local trade at 6¼@6½c ₿ lb

HIDES AND FURS—Prices for hides are still down on account of the many damaged lots reaching the market. Undamaged are quoted at 15c ₿ lb for dry beef hides 6c for green culls 8@10c elk, 18@20c ₿ lb deer 18@30c ₿ lb dried and 50a 75c a piece green mink skins each $1@[illegible] otter $1@[illegible] beaver [illegible]$1

WOOL—There has been some decline in the movement, though several large lots have arrived during the past week. Nothing has transpired to change the quotations of 23@25 cts ₿ lb for fair valley wool and 21@22c for that from east of the mountains. The Commercial Herald says The shipments of wool eastward both by sea and land have thus far in the season been of considerable magnitude, resulting in reducing the stock of all kinds in San Francisco to about 1,500 000 lbs, out of a year's production of 25 00 000 lbs. There is now very little Oregon wool obtainable as the bulk of the clip is controlled by two or three parties who prefer to ship the same East for their own account

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach, Kidneys Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire Rose or Erysipelas Pimples Pustules, Blotches, Boils Tumors Tetter and Salt Rheum Scald Head Ringworm Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain in the Bones, Side and Head Female Weakness Sterility Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease Dropsy Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility With their departure health returns

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual or desirable

Dr A A Hayes State Assayer of Massachusetts says of it I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes.'

Buckingham's Dye,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black at discretion. It is easily applied being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.
